

We Intertwine

Larkin Poe

As the cold turns to frost and the day becomes lost in the dark You hold me tight, hold me near, oh my dear, your love is left a mark

Yeah, you're leavin' a large mark across my whole heart People puzzle and talk and wander and walk through their years
They say hello, say goodbye, search for someone to dry all thei r tears

'Cause we all want the large marks, we all want the big sparks

And when my heart can beat no more, I hope I'd die for all the good that's left in this world

And when my body gives out I, I hope you find out just what thi s whole life was for

You and me, us and we, her and I, and him and she

It's a fact ain't it true that love's the finest thing around Through all we say, all we do, we hope that it won't let us dow n

We search our whole lives for the moment that it arrives

And underneath we all know we would die in the name of true lov e

After all the pain, the lies, the games, when push came to shov
e

We would pay any price, we would give our whole lives

And when my heart can beat no more, I hope I'd die for all the
good that's left in this world

And when my body gives out I, I hope you find out just what thi s whole life was for

You and me, us and we, her and I, and him and she

Yours and mine, thou and thine, and all the ways we intertwine

Ours and theirs, the dreams we share here and there and everywh ere

Everywhere