We Three Twogether

Will true love smile on you Sometimes you never know. And I myself was lonely Not so very long ago.

Life was hard, times were bad, Heart was broken, I was feeling sad. My dreams had blown away like a feather.

Could not smile, could not sleep, Nothing helped, not even counting sheep. Heart filled with rain, no change in the weather.

My faithful friend, whose name is Phydeaux, He could not chase away my blues. Ah, but he tried, though.

Empty heart full of strife Then one day love walked into my life And all at once we stood there together

Held our breath for a baby boy, Two months early little bundle of joy And now we three are happy twogether.

Our dearest friend, old faithful Phydeaux He could not come along to the baby ward But he tried, though.

Love abides, life makes sense Great big house with a little white picket fence. And now we three are happy twogether
