

Quiet Now

Laura Marie

Why are you quiet now, why are you quiet now Why are you in your head
I want you to come out and tell me all about the things you haven't said let me get you over it, take off all that's on your mind lay your head upon my lap and let the words unwind
When you look at me this time just tell me it's alright to be this way

Why are you holding back Why are you holding back There's no other place to be
We are just here and now We know what we're about Nobody else can see
So let me get you over it Why let all the world decide Wrap your arms around my waist Cause we won't be denied

Lay here in my arms, be just who you are. I want to be awake
We'll just wander in the ways that we are loved that no one can explain
When you look at me this time just tell me it's alright to be this way

What if we let it go What if we let it go Maybe the world will change
Maybe a heart would have a chance To stop and learn to beat in other ways
So let me get you over it we don't have to be defined
Put your hand inside my hand and, baby, nevermind

Lay here in my arms, be just who you are. I want to be awake
We'll just wander in the ways that we are loved that no one can explain
When you look at me this time just tell me it's alright to be this way
