

Expectations

Lauren Jauregui

Up in bed, all alone
Wondering where you've been Ten past three
I know the club closed at two A.M
I've already been through about seven scenarios 'bout what it w as that changed your mind
Knowing very well that you told me you'd come home, and it happ ens every time

Wish I had no expectations
I wish that I could get it through your head
With no confrontation
I really wish we could talk about it instead
All these tears that I cry while I'm turned to the side
And you're in the same fucking bed
Wish I had no expectations
But I expect, you expect, we expect

No, I don't mean to pry
I don't need no play by play (nah)
All I need from your side is for you to communicate Respect for my time, respect for my space, respect for my energ y
'Cause I've been waiting here all night for you to warm me up
And you haven't once thought of me

Wish I had no expectations
I really wish that I could get it through your head
With no confrontation
I really wish we could talk about it instead
All these tears that I cry while I'm turned to the side
And you're in the same fucking bed
Wish I had no expectations
But I expect, you expect, we expect

Oh, I wish I had no expectations
I wish I could get through your head
With no confrontation (confrontation)
I really wish we could talk about it instead (instead)
All these tears that I cry while I'm turned to the side
And you're in the same fucking bed
Wish I had no expectations (no...)
But I expect, you expect, we expect