

how much a heart can hold

LeAnn Rimes

Love doesn't ask if you want to fall
It doesn't make any sense at all
Makes you see what you never saw
How much a heart can hold

You take on me, I take on you
God knows it's not an easy thing to do
But we have a lifetime for us to prove
How much a heart can hold

It's brave what you've given me to save in the palm of my hand
Someone knew I belonged with you

Feels like you gave me the sun and moon
A new kind of love came pouring through Oh, what a blessing to have so much room for two

You could let your heart close, fear it might break
Wouldn't be the first to make that mistake
But love has a power to make its own place
Oh, how much a heart can hold

It's brave what you've given me to save in the palm of my hand
Someone knew I belonged with you

Every time you put your hand in mine
I see how much a heart can hold
