Dream

So sweetly, like a lie
I walked with you in my dream

When my footsteps are left alone again
I get lost and wander but still,
I want you

This slow heart makes me feel miserable
So I can't throw away the promise that remains with me

When my footsteps are left alone again
I get lost and wander but still

I just wait for you, just back to
So that those times that seemed like a lie
Can be colored in me

I just pray for you, just turn me on
So that I can fall asleep in your embrace,
That I feel like I'll never be in again

Dream

The rough wind, the cold sea
The memories that I thought would be forever

You are growing more and more faint
Like the memories that lost its voice

I just wait for you, just back to
So that those times that seemed like a lie
Can be colored in me

I just pray for you, just turn me on
So that I can fall asleep in your embrace,
That I feel like I'll never be in again

If only the night stopped brightening
So that I can stay by your side
If only you came to me every night
To comfort the broken me
Then I would smile and say "Okay, see you tomorrow"
And gladly endure through a day

I know
This is just a dream
And the words saying that
You will come back to me have gone far away

But I just pray for you, just turn me on My remaining days cannot erase you
