

Into the Void

Lee Roker

You wake up in the morning and your eyes are burnin' red
Strike like a ment light, smoke struggle from the bed
Fever didn't kill you so you reach for something more
Your eyes have sunk into your skull, you walk the killing floor

When you first arrived there you were innocent and young
Thought you had the answers but the struggle has begun
In the flash of a light, it's seconds but it drags on like a fi ght
Sometimes a little demon just return you to the night

Into the dark, you raced
Into the void, without a trace
I know you can't escape, escape without a fight

Now you thought that you could make it
You thought you could succeed
You thought you could handle all the money and greed
Land of desperation is just lying on a vault
In the city of the angels ain't no place that you would stop

You drive to the south till the city finally wins
You forgot to hold on fast to all the dreams that sucked you in Like a candle that burns quickly, never throws no heat
The paper that you crumbled up and threw out on the streets

Into the dark, you raced
Into the void, without a trace
I know you can't escape, escape into the night

Into the dark, you drove
What was a good is now a hole
I know you can't escape, escape without a fight
