Lift Your Eyes

You can look in your head and find no answer You can look in your heart and find no hope And you can crawl on the ocean floor Searching for the silver pearl But you won't find the treasure in this world

You can lift your eyes Come on to the cross There is healing for all who come

You can look at the stars and make no sense of it (Staring at the sky) You can search your soul and find no light Until you look in the Savior's eyes And then you finally realize The saving sacrifice is love divine

Come on and lift your eyes Lift your eyes, come to the cross Come one, come all
