

Grieving

Leith Ross

I never will stop grieving
Who we are when we are young
For my grandmother, her children
And who I never will become

For a feeling that is fading more
Each day I see the sun
I never will stop grieving
Grief is all I have of love

For grief is love run backwards
A great movie in reverse
And knowing how it ends
Can give another something birth

Gives another something terrible
Great roots inside the earth
That too late, after it's gone
Is when we finally weigh it's worth

Like how my mother says that funerals
Have the timing down all wrong
You say so much to a person
Only after they are gone

But grief is love run backwards
So we love them better then
And we love them with forgiveness
All because we know the end

So I never will stop grieving
Everything that's yet to die
I think I'll love after I'm dead
And I'll grieve while I'm alive

Like how my mother says that funerals
Have the timing down all wrong
You say so much to a person
Only after they are gone

But grief is love run backwards
So we love them better then
And we love them with forgiveness
All because we know the end

So I never will stop grieving
Everything that's yet to die
I think I'll love after I'm dead
And I'll grieve while I'm alive

I think I'll love after I'm dead
And I'll grieve while I'm alive
