

Coming Home

Lemar

ooooooooohh im losing patience it's been so long feels like a million years since you've been gone swear if i hear another slow song you might see me on the loose i just can't wait until your phone call what you been doing, nothing at all i miss your skin, yea it was so soft im sorry to sing the blues but oh yea this is the hardest thing that i've ever done i need your love, i wish you were giving me some i might go to parties and i might have some fun but nothing compares to you so i know the way i'll be all alone the smile on my face sinking like a storm but im not afraid to be on my own if im counting the days till your coming home and when your coming home
when you coming home
when you coming home
when you coming home
don't wanna read another post card your love letters just making it hard i wanna be where ever you are you already know it's true this is the hardest thing i've ever done
but im not afraid to be on my own
when you coming home
when you coming home
when you coming home
and ill be sitting here all day i'll be waiting on you too call me i'll close my eyes and dream of you all day in my mind you'll be with me always
when you coming home
when you coming home
when you coming home
this is the hardest
this is the hardest
this this this is the hardest
this is the hardest
this is the hardest thing that i've ever done.
