

Into The Night Sky

Lemar

Did you ever look into the night sky and wonder what you are?
That it takes you many million light years to the nearest star
Do you believe there's a place for you that ain't made of bricks or stone
And it's a place that no one else can get to, a place they call a soul

Five billion years, we still don't know
Everything's got a gaping hole
Here's the only certain thing I know
To get something from nothing is a miracle
Ain't nobody coming from the sky
All you are is deep inside
Like a feather on a wind of time
All blowing to the next destination

Did you ever look into the night sky and see we're not alone
'Cause if we weren't all prehistoric cavemen, I'm sure we'd go and roam
Across the universe, searching out there to see what we can find
To me it doesn't really seem much different then when we learn to fly

Five billion years, we still don't know
Everything's got a gaping hole
Here's the only certain thing I know
To get something from nothing is a miracle
Ain't nobody coming from the sky
All you are is deep inside
Like a feather on a wind of time
All blowing to the next destination
