

Applause

Leoniden

I took a hard fall on the ground
After stumbling for a couple of months
Listening to thousand voices
Giving ten thousand advices
And a lot of fingers in the wound

No matter where we go, we go too fast
Driven by ambitions
In opposite directions

Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by breaking into
Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by letting secrets rest

Applause, applause, applause, a warm applause
Applause, applause, applause, a warm applause

Stop, not every single thing has its box
And some of our things will be lost
Let the strands be cut
Ah, you can do whatever you want but you can't call me anymore
Sleeping solo in a bed never kept me up before
Devotion leaves in waves they say

Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by breaking into
Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by letting secrets rest
Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by breaking into
Applause for the things we lost
Paying our respects by letting secrets rest

And I seem to see
No matter where we go, we go too fast
Driven by ambitions (Driven by ambitions)
In opposite directions (In opposite directions)
No matter where we go, we go too fast
Driven by ambitions (Driven by ambitions)
In opposite directions (In opposite directions)

No matter where we go, we go too fast
Driven by ambitions
In opposite directions
No matter where we go, we go too fast
Driven by ambitions
In opposite directions
