

Out To Sea

Lera Lynn

Take me to the land's divide
Let the waters rush out to tide
Well, this is all a dream
And I'll let it all go

Tell me how I should decide
The face of a man who will drive this ride
In fear old men made
Let it all go

I wish I may, I wish I might
Ride this wave 'til morning light
Drop me off at the shore; lay my head down
They say life's more than what we see
And surely in death there too will be
Just give me one chance more
To lay my head down

The rope so short and the jump so high
And falling sounds like a lullaby
The weight of all I know
Let it all go

The fragile line on which we dance
The thread of life left up to chance
The day you'll never know
Let it all go

I wish I may, I wish I might
Ride this wave 'til morning light
Drop me off at the shore; lay my head down
They say life's more than what we see
And surely in death there too will be
Just give me one chance more
To lay my head down

And if they push me out to sea
Darlin' won't you remember me
Aah...
Aah...Ohh..

The rope so short and the jump so high
And falling sounds like a lullaby
The rope so short and the jump so high
And falling sounds like a lullaby

The rope so short and the jump so high
(They say life's more than what we see)
And falling sounds like a lullaby
(And surely in death there too will be)

The rope so short and the jump so high
(They say life's more than what we see)
And falling sounds like a lullaby
(And surely in death there too will be)
