

So Far

Lera Lynn

My my my, look at what I've done to you
Look at what I've put us through this time
I, I, I undid all I could undo
And never even faced you eye to eye

But I can't remember why I left you today
Today your another life, a happy memory far away
So far away

Time, time, time has worn away the clarity
Has worn away the reasons why I cried
So why, why, why did I feel the pull to break free
Can someone remind me how we died?

Cause I can't remember why I left you today
Today your another life, a happy memory far away
So far away

Here's hoping tomorrow frames a portrait of our dooms day

Because I can't remember why I left you today
Today your another life, a happy memory far away
I can't remember why I left you today
Today your another life, a happy memory far away
Far away
So far away