

Heroic Suicide

letlive.

I know about hurting and hatred, but cliché kills the heart
And I know you're looking for some release
Some things are said and some things are done
While this is the best worst thing you can become

Within you they'll sin it's true

And I'll be your hero, and I'll take my life
In exchange for your knife so I can finish what you have started
And don't push it through, and I don't need you,
I'll take this knife and stab an inch or two further than you

I have found, I know exactly just what I must do
Sit back and be strong in disbelief that what you've done is actually true
So remember you'll never amount
To nothing short of the one you doubt

Within you they'll sin it's true

And I'll be your hero, and I'll take my life
In exchange for your knife so I can finish what you have started
And don't push it through, and I don't need you,
I'll take this knife and stab an inch or two further than you

I'll try my best and when I fail
You've succeeded to provoke this fall

And I'll be your hero, and I'll take my life
In exchange for your knife so I can finish what you have started
And don't push it through, and I don't need you,
I'll take this knife and stab an inch or two further than you

Cry show me how much you care