Come on, I will see you through these hard times. I will watch you be strong, grow strong. Rest your head against my head and don't cry. I stand guard against the end. There's no end. Life's a circle. We will rise up through the wind inside us. We will offer something new to someone we've made.