

fly when i fall

Lewis Watson

When heavy words
Are every word spoken
And every time that we touch
Another wound opens
We're glowing golden
But burning out too soon
We've been getting lost from the start
A drop in the ocean

How can a love leave you lonely with nothing at all?
Never learned how to fly when I fall
Asking ourselves is it worth holding on anymore?
Then the morning comes

Another moment
Another day older
And every time that we fight
We say that it's over
But through the darkness
We're still burning bright
And when I'm lost in your arms
We start to smoulder

How can a love leave you lonely with nothing at all?
Never learned how to fly when I fall
Asking ourselves is it worth holding on anymore?

Then you start to fold into me just like you always do
Couldn't picture myself without you
Suddenly feels like it did when our hearts were brand new
'Til the morning comes
