

Estranged

Lexa Gates

Wonder what you're doing
Can you hit me back?
I don't mean to be a freak
Less you're into that
Feeling something strange
Man, I think you changed me
Don't leave me estranged

These bitches thirsting over you
Make me want kill them all
I'll throw a party on the roof
And make sure all them fall
I'm looking out into the future
Praying on your call, no need to stall

And to love is so embarrassing
Picturing me carrying your baby
That I'd pop out and then hold up
With a wedding ring, on my finger
Giant diamonds 'cause I know you're living right
Make me wanna Uber to your house
And watch you sleep at night
Don't leave me hanging, 'cause without you I might hang myself
Know I got disorders, been had issues with my mental health
Tryna keep it classy, know you fancy, I don't need your wealth
I know exactly what I'm doing, chilling on my own
Whenever you feel like you're lonely, you could hit my phone
And if you're pussy, I could make a move and set the tone
I see you shining, got your shit together, in your zone
We only human though, nobody wants to be alone

Wonder what you're doing
Can you hit me back?
I don't mean to be a freak
Less you're into that
Feeling something strange
Man, I think you changed me
Don't leave me estranged

These bitches thirsting over you
Make me want kill them all
I'll throw a party on the roof
And make sure all them fall
I'm looking out into the future
Praying on your call, no need to stall

Am I nothing to you?
Just another person
Blinds close in my face
Outside your place

Thought we had a good thing going
Did I do something wrong?
Thought we had a good thing going
Did I do something wrong?

Am I nothing to you?

No more than a hello, hello
Just another person
No more than a hello, hello

Am I nothing to you?
No more than a hello, hello
Just another person
No more than a hello, hello