

holiday

Leyla Blue

Hello rainclouds
Hello fall
Hello season of goodbyes
It's the loneliest of all

Hello teardrops
Watch them dissolve in the ocean of my bathtub
Down the waterfall

I stare in my reflection in the blue
Oh, when I'm all alone
It's always me and her, us two
And though we spend our lives together
I think some time a part is overdue
I could use a little holiday from you

Hello winter
Hello lights
Hello 5 p.m. sunsets
The longer lonely nights

But I feel nothing when I close my eyes
All the water in my bathtub is frozen, straight to eye
Saying, yeah

I know, I know, it's nothing new
How I'm never alone
It's always me and her, us two
And though we spend our lives together
I think some time a part is overdue
I could use a little holiday from you

Oh, I could use a pray
I'd get away, a cheap vacation
But ain't no private plane to take me far enough away 'cause
We've been on and on I'm stuck with what's inside, so I
Stare in my reflection in the blue
Oh, she ain't going nowhere
At least not any time soon

I know I spend our lives together
But it's not always funny, that's the truth
I could use a little holiday from you
I could use a little holiday from you
