

Final Form

Lianne La Havas

What is that incessant humming
Coming from your manga maw
Oh, you breathe twin towers,
Oh, you gave your powers up.

And I can't teach you how to stop it
And you can't make me understand
Break the withered habit
And I need your rabid smile

Your home,
Your head,
Take form,

First body, Last body

I wish the summer was over us in bursts
We're in the middle of nothing we can hold
And the sewers erupting life in gold
I'm gonna happen and happen until my whole give up the ghost

So lean me up and take a picture
I can't move my legs and arms
Too much information,
Too much to be thinking of

Your home,
Your head,
Take form

First body, Last body

I wish the cesspit would open like a bible
I wish the rotten would blossom with the tidal
And, I've never been able to divide us
I'm gonna wrestle and wrangle until my legs become unreal

Yet while I can slumber, rest, move so slowly
It's creeping across his chest, like some cold weed
He's not as afraid as me, like some dancer

I wish the cesspit would open like a bible
I wish the rotten would blossom with the tidal
And, I've never been able to divide us
I'm gonna wrestle and wrangle until my legs become unreal
I'm gonna stumble and scramble my way to lactic ecstasy
