

Clementine

Lincoln Durham

Clementine, don't you cry for me
When the smell of the roses fades eventually
Just go for now and leave me to my sleep
I'm free from this world, from this painful heartbeat

Chorus: Hey, Clementine
Don't you cry for me
Clementine, may your path be blessed
Never again to wear your black veil and dress
Let each step take you far from pain
Don't let this world leave its dirty old black stain

Chorus repeat

Clementine, now it's time to part
There's no breath in me, but still an ache in my heart
Just give me one last smile and dry your eyes
We had our time, and now it's time to say goodbye

Chorus repeat
