Throw Your Love Away

Little Big Town

Baby you keep showing up in every dream
You're walking 'round my head in your faded jeans
I don't know what it means, I don't know what it means

You left without me saying what I wanted to
The thought of you is filling up this empty room
I don't know what to do with all the missing you

I can patch the holes and take a million pictures off the wall
I can send you back your old guitar you gave to me
Yeah it don't bother me at all
I can set our bed on fire but your memory is fireproof
So what's the use
I can't throw your love away and I can't give it back to you

You made it look so easy with your moving on
Like you never think about our favorite song
Dancing in the living room slow dancin'
It was over way too soon

I wake up in the morning and I call your name
I wish there was a get over you pill to take
Everything is different but it's all the same
My heart is so devoted it won't even break

I can patch the holes and take a million pictures off the wall
I can send you back your old guitar you gave to me
Yeah it don't bother me at all
I can set our bed on fire but your memory is fireproof
So what's the use
I can't throw your love away and I can't give it back to you, back to you

Ohh
Ohh

I can't give you back all the kisses
Underneath those summer stars
I can't give you back all the cold
When I'm not sleeping in your arms

I can patch the holes and take a million pictures off the wall
I can send you back your old guitar you gave to me
Yeah it don't bother me at all
Oh, I can set our bed on fire but your memory is fireproof
So what's the use
I can't throw your love away and I can't give it back to you
No I can't throw your love away and I can't give it back to you
Back to you

Ohh

Wish I could give it back baby
Ohh
