

9
3

6
9
6

Into me
Suffering
A thousand floating beaks eat the sea

I slit myself a gate
And slide into the gauss hue
And scrawl a flame
Onto my mane
There is a peal of love
Resting in my palm
My bleeding God

This goldforge isn't empty
I scan my face for stars
This shekel made of heartwire
I am unscathed
My frame unsheathed

Dragons broke into my eyes
And stole my teeth
I stamped my way across the gallery of grief

The skin is falling through the apple
The clocks are closing down
The valuables are wrapped in cashmere
Spiders laying hands

Dragons flew into my eyes
And stole my teeth
I heaved my way across the helium
And charged the fleet
Cauterize my nothingness
And heal my quads
Rasterize the doctor
Prowling through the desk
Invading my caress

93696
Haela Sophia in the sky
Time forgives the climb
Through craggy paradigms
And jagged crimes

Time taking out my eyes
Opening my robe
Time streaming through the wraith
Standing at the moat

Time taking out my eyes
Opening my robe

Time streaming through the wraith
Standing at the moat
Before the dawn
I saw a prototype
Before the tongs
Pinched up a lobe of sky
I saw the Laet
Reflected in your eyes
Eluding my concerns
Arguing about my life
Exposing hidden nerves
I faulted you for leaving me
I'm giving you the right
To take me home tonight
There's a switchblade on the pillowcase
Inside our home
A mound of stones
That represents our love