

Drunk, Running

Lizzy McAlpine

What did you mean when you said that
You were sober now?
Caught you in bed with a Red Bull vodka
Two weeks out

No one stops you
Nobody takes it from your hand
Even when you
Break your leg drunk, running
Someone ought to
Hold you to your words
Say, "I love you"
And then drink it backwards

What if it was all my fault?
What if I drove you to it?
I was only honest sometimes
And I think you knew it
Make a person out of memories
They won't live up to it
I'm so sorry I stay
When I shouldn't

No one stops me
Nobody takes you from my hand
Even when you (Even when you)
Break your leg drunk, running
Someone ought to (Someone ought to)
Hold me to my words
Say, "I love you"
And then drink it backwards
Say, "I love you"
