

Rhinestones

Lloyd Cole

Just to break my heart in two
Just because you wanted to

Just to take me
Just to break me
Just to show me
That you own me
and you know that I know that you do

I say X, so you say Y
When you know I'm not a mathematical guy
I've got two left feet but I'll come running alright
I wasn't looking for trouble, it's just a lazy eye

I see you dancing on the White House lawn
With some press corps suit (looks) like you're getting along
He's got connections, I've got none
He'll give you rocks, I'll give you rhinestones

But if you need me to beg?
I can plead, but I can't go back to K Street
Because you know where that bridge too far leads

Just to break my heart in two
Just because you wanted to

Just to take me
Just to break me
Just to show me
That you own me
and I know that you know that I know that you do
