Tell me, tell me, tell me she said it's all a blur
Catapult from the earth, cannonballing back down
I've been waiting for what feels like all of my life
With a charlatan smile that says I once had my doubts

You're running lights at traffic lights
Still singing midnight choirs, oh
Your New Year's Eve, so sad to leave
You made it out alive

But so what? I never noticed
I was in the moment, I wish that I could stay

Tell me, tell me, tell me
She hung on every word
In a shattered return
Under mushrooming clouds
I could never really be
Alone anyway
Tarot cards on the table
Candlewax on the ground

You're in-between, awake, asleep
Still reeling from the flight, oh
Your New Year's Eve, so sad to leave
You made it out alive

But so what? I never noticed
I was in the moment, I wish that I could stay
But no one, no one in focus
Shouting "Where you going?" like it's the only way

But so what? I never noticed
I was in the moment, I wish that I could stay
But no one, no one in focus
Shouting "Where you going?" like it's the only way
