

One More Everything

Logan Mize

Once upon a time at this bar I'd never been to
I came to drink alone, that's where I ran into you
Or, I guess I should say, you ran into me
I could tell right away that fate had something up it's sleeve

It started right there with a laugh and a drink or two End up with a later that night kiss in a corner booth
When the lights came on, they yelled last call
I remember saying, yeah, I remember saying to you, baby

I'll take the one more of everything
Your smile, your kiss, your sweet, your crazy
Can't ever tell what tomorrow brings
We wait around too long, it might be long gone, so
I'll take the one more of everything

Storms like you don't just come along everyday
When they do, most the time, they blow in and then they're gone away
But you keep crashing in stronger than a tidal wave
No matter how many times, I'm always gonna feel the same

I'll take the one more of everything
Your smile, your kiss, your sweet, your crazy
Can't ever tell what tomorrow brings
We wait around too long, it might be long gone, so
I'll take the one more of everything

Life moves so fast
I gotta make it last, gotta make it last

So I'll take the one more of everything
Your smile, your kiss, your sweet, your crazy
Can't ever tell what tomorrow brings
We wait around too long, it might be long gone, so
I'll take the one more of everything
I'll take the one more of everything
