

End Cycle

Logh

You turned and smiled and said that nothing ever ends
Now only a colossal wreck remains

You walked for months to find the other side awash
The burning desert stretches out before your eyes

Flood the lands and drown the world once and for all
The sands go on and on until there is no end