

Echoes

Lola Marsh

Echoes and ghosts in my head, they are swimming in my bed
They're not giving me a chance, I'm here for no one
All the words that you said are alive and I keep them on a page
Am I ever gonna change? I should have gave them to someone

Where are you tonight? Restless like a wolf in the night
Lighthouse in the dark, where are you tonight?

And I know that they won't save me from the voices in my mind
And I know that I can turn away and hide
From afar, the bells are ringing on the first day of my life
And the sun begins to shine on the lonely one

I'm wearin' the coat that you gave me, and suddenly it's real
I don't know if I should feel that I'm here for someone
Oh, echoes and ghosts in my head, they are racing in my bed
And I'm about to take a chance 'cause I'm here for someone

Where are you tonight? Restless like a wolf in the night
Lighthouse in the dark, where are you tonight?

And I know that they won't save me from the voices in my mind
And I know that I can turn away and hide
From afar, the bells are ringing on the first day of my life
And the sun begins to shine on the lonely one
