

I woke up in the land of broken dreams
How did we lose the trust in what we had?
I don't recall anything we cannot be
Don't you see that we might have something left?

Just a spark in the pyre
A drop in the wide sea

Show me your scars, I show you mine
Tell me your fears, take all the time you need
Speak from the scar not from the wound
If we stay still we will be doomed
Show me your scars, I show you mine

Hurt by the thought of your despair
Won't you let me be the one to hold you close
Not a thing in this world does compare
To the one I have always loved the most

Just a spark in the pyre
A drop in the wide sea

Show me your scars, I show you mine
Tell me your fears, take all the time you need
Speak from the scar not from the wound
If we stay still we will be doomed
Show me your scars, I show you mine

Show me your scars, I show you mine
I want to thank you for your time

Show me your scars, I show you mine
Tell me your fears, take all the time you need
Speak from the scar not from the wound
If we stay still we will be doomed
Show me your scars, I show you mine