

Godmaker

Lorna Shore

All will now behold

Ancient genes have spliced the earth, we now know our creator
Forced to gather in mass herds, mass control, deafening hysteria

Searching for a source of faith, a new life force has cornered our race

Greeted us at face to face, taken from home into the dead space

And now you know you were never really alone

So can't you see your existence is merely a flaw in its entirety?

Chemicals will erase all life, you will be denied all rights, and you will behold a portrait of suffering

Absolute and utter domination, they come forth to speak no peaceful Proclamation

Opening new doors to focus on our deterioration

Hearts beat strong with the might of ten thousands nations

We now know our Creator

Why can't I see?

Why can't I breathe?

Can it be that all source of light; has forsaken me

The light has forsaken me

No father, no center, no serenity, no guidance, just violence, the truths killing me

Why can't you speak, see what you've done, create and destroy between your mind and tongue

It's game over

The light has forsaken me, no father, no center, no serenity