

Moonstruck

Los Campesinos!

Crane my neck to see the supermoon
As the top deck gets hotboxed
Swore ourselves we'd have a Shandy Summer
We ain't slumming, no
You gotta detox to rettox

When the light falls, in silver slabs
Through the window, a selenograph
When the light falls, I illuminate
I am moonstruck, it's a welcome fate

Night takes colour from the dusk now
Paints it crimson in my jaw (I tumble from the pedestal)
Count the stray hairs in my wet shave
Costly words from mouth of cheapskate
Sticky floors and stiff applause

When the light falls, in silver slabs
Through the window, a selenograph
When the light falls, I illuminate
I am moonstruck, it's a welcome fate

When the light falls, in silver slabs
Through the window, a selenograph
When the light falls (the light falls, I illuminate)
I am moonstruck (I'm moonstruck, it's a welcome fate)

It's hard to find the romance, in a town not known for sunsets
Bad vibes at the toast station, your victories, your regrets
Let us die in comfort, led upon electric three-piece suite
You and me, antipodes, the Earth's collapse, we finally meet
