

I was sat up on the train
Staring out the window at the rain (aye)
I heard this little lady must've felt the pain ask her mum if the blazzing sun'll ever shine again
I felt ashamed feel the same not her mother though Nah, started to laugh got her son involved (aye)
Mention the past like a running joke
And told her 'without all the rain there's no stunning growth'
Close, ah, to everything and nothing picture past the honeymoon and bluffing
Where the wooden spoon is only cuffing
Shorter the discussion but the roots can't manoeuvre out of nothing
I've been suffering these dreamy days (ah)
Remedy and lust don't hold any memories of us Rather hold you everyday until the memories are dust Yo we only caught the train cause you know I hate the bus Never get enough

Born and raised
Made attempts to crawl away
Find a way to exist and hide your face some relate Leave everything in yesterday

They ask about the bible I was reading Told them that the title was misleading labelled it Jerusalem but really its for cooking Middle-Eastern I could see your mind was changing with the seasons shady for a reason (ah)
They will start decreasing, leaving like the orange in the evening
It was creeping through the clouds but now I'm proud to see the image s releasing
I just wish the little lady could've seen it but she was dreaming (ah
)
Reckon she's standing with her mum saying to her 'look, mother here's the sun' rooted in the moment til the memories are done So I sit and start to wonder on the woman she'll become Wonder if I'll have a son or a daughter, ones that I brought up never strong never telling me to run Never tried to find a sum, tryna get it done yo I wonder if she'll ever be as clever as her mum, one [?] to be man we can turn back in a second So remember what I'm tryna show you this life can be good one minute and next minute it can turn bad

So don't look down on nobody coz that's how life can turn for everybo dy
So remember its love everybody and I'm gonna look for that for my [?]
Thank you
