

strangers

Loyle Carner

Yeah, yeah

You know my name
Letters escape you
She said we're the same
Hope they don't change you
'Cause you been needing me this way for ages
And hours turned to days we feel like strangers

It was my idea, yeah
So lemme call your bluff, you can hide right here
Don't cry right now
Let me wipe that tear with a tissue I had in my pocket from last week
From the last time you asked me
How deep is the rivers that run in the city? The troubles begun
The city was burning
Nobody was learning, I was out here still earning Paper, the cheddar, the cheese, the shit mouse eat
Still, they wanna call me vermin
Filled with dirt, filled with pain, while them people don't work
My head still hurt, Nurofen don't work
But I still pop away, pop shit like bubble wrap
And I told them I'm done with that
The same way I said I was done with rap
Yeah, and then I keep on coming back

You know my name
Letters escape you
She said we're the same
Hope they don't change you
'Cause you been needing me this way for ages
And hours turned to days we feel like strangers

You know my name
Letters escape you
She said we're the same
Hope they don't change you
'Cause you been needing me this way for ages
Hours turned to days we feel like strangers
