

Intro - The Parade

Luke Christopher

Lord help me the parade is coming
I'm too used to living for nothing

When boys and girls big and small,
young and old, come together, its quite astonishing.
Everyone gathered to celebrate life, freedom, love.
That's just it isn't it. It's love that rules all,
not money, not power, not fame, so lets just lead the song,
the chants, the dances, the marches, the conversations with love.

One night we will be sitting on a hill, under the lights in the sky and wonder why were here.
On that night I'd like to have an answer,
so here's to love in all its forms.
And to the colors of each of us and our own parades.
The revolution has begun. Hip hip