

buzzkill

Lyn Lapid

Oh no, I should've stayed home
I should've said "no" to tagging along
They're playing a song I don't know
'Cause I don't like beer, and
I'm wearing strange clothes
It's all on my face, don't have to say
What you know

I'm such a buzzkill, baby, turn
The yellow to blue
I'm bringing you downhill with me
Sad, but it's nothing new
Yet every time I see somebody happy
I wish that I could feel it too
'Cause then I won't be such a buzzkill to you

The people around are a decibel too loud
They're falling in love and all getting drunk
Guess I'm in the wrong crowd
Maybe I'm tired or maybe it's fear
If it's up to me, then I would be Anywhere but here

I'm such a buzzkill, baby, turn
The yellow to blue
I'm bringing you downhill with me
Sad, but it's nothing new
Yet every time I see somebody happy
I wish that I could feel it too
'Cause then I won't be such a buzzkill to you

Don't have to try
To kill the vibe
And it's hard to return your calls, but I'd Still appreciate
Your pity invite
Just so I can say I'd rather stay at home tonight

I'm such a buzzkill, baby, turn
The yellow to blue
The yellow to blue
I'm bringing you downhill with me
Sad, but it's nothing new
It's nothing new
Yet every time I see somebody happy
I wish that I could feel it too
'Cause then I won't be such a buzzkill to you
