

Detached

Lyn Lapid

I've been here for three nights
Forgetting what it used to be like
To sleep in and not hear you breathin
Your life is so easy to be in

If we could just freeze time
Pretend that you always have been mine
The second I leave you we're all done
Go back to pretending I'm no one

I'm wondering how
I'm everything
And then nothing

How are you so detached
When I'm outta your sight I'm outta your mind
Forget what we had
From so in the present to stuck in the past
How are you so detached

I don't wanna leave you tomorrow
Cuz when I leave you never follow
This object ain't permanent, is it?
Cus when it's not there you don't miss it

Swear there was a red string
Connecting a piece of you to me
But I'm guessin I just misread that
I heard that can happen with contact

I'm wondering how
I'm everything
And then nothing

How are you so detached
When I'm outta your sight I'm outta your mind
Forget what we had
From so in the present to stuck in the past
How are you so detached

(How are you so detached?)
(How are you so detached?)
(How are you so detached?)
