

what a shame

Mad Tsai

Pretty blue eyes
God what a lie
I scraped my knees on jealousy
Thought you were mine
Now my heart is bruised while you move on to use some other guy

He's 6'4
But now I'm sure
That boy grew tall to watch me fall onto the floor
He only loved himself and wanted someone else to give him more

Why would you let me love you if you knew you'd never feel the same?
You let me give you heaven so I guess you've got some hell to pay

So, it would be shame
If your car went up in flames
And your mother knew
The times you left me crying in the backseat of your fucking Camry
Oh, it would be a shame
If I crashed your wedding day
And everybody knew
The walls you punched when all I needed was someone to fucking hug
Oh, it would be a shame
Oh, it would be a shame

You're crawling back
To light the gas
Babe it's not me it's therapy
That's what you lack
No more late night drives under suburban lights that keep me sad

Go ahead and tell your friends I'm just another ex who's gone insane
I gave you three whole years and all you did was wash it down the drain

So, it would be shame
If your house went up in flames
And your daddy knew
The jobs you said you got to pay your rent only to crash my bed
Oh, it would be a shame
If you hit a hurricane
And you finally knew

The wreck you made when you told me you faked all of the love y ou gave
Oh, it would be a shame
Oh, it would be a shame