

I'd misplaced my memories
The spark that made me lonely in the crowd
My nature was on hold
Hidden in myself, embers glowing
Spirit tamed and cowed
Will wary to unfold

I see it clearly now
Through my soul a feral streak runs

And this I swear: I'll be burning brighter
Never again will I forget what I am

Hold tight
Never let them drag you back in line

Survivor, rebel, liberator:
I reclaim the brightness of the sun
And the power of my savage, boundless heart
In your eyes I'll flare
Resound in you until the day I die
The stars are mine to own

You'll see me clearly now
Through my soul a feral streak runs

And this I swear: I will walk on fire
My steps will be momentous
You will know me for who I am

Hold tight
Never let them back into your mind
Make sure those voices drown
We know who we are and where we belong
The stars are ours to own
