

Screw You A Little Bit

Maddie Poppe

Screw you a little bit
For being such a gentleman
For the little piece of heaven
I'll probably never get again

Screw you a little bit
For laughing at my jokes
For saying text me when you get home
For making me feel wanted
But I'm still sleeping on my own

Round and round we go again
We leave your sheets, go back to friends
And I pretend I don't know how this ends

Why did you kiss me and say
Don't leave, insisting I stay
Why did you call me baby if you didn't want me that way
So screw you, cause I do still want you
A little bit

Screw you a little bit
Because despite your good intentions
I've got these cycles of depression
You got me spiraling cause I can't read the writing underneath
It's like I'll never learn my lesson

Round and round we go again
We leave your sheets, go back to friends
And I pretend I don't know how this ends

So why did you kiss me and say
Don't leave, insisting I stay
Why did you call me baby if you didn't want me that way
So screw you, cause I do still want you
A little bit

Screw you a little bit
Cause what we had was so damn fun
And screw you a little bit
Cause I'll never be the one

Screw you a little bit
Cause I can't even be that mad

Screw you a little bit
Cause you're the best I'll never have
