Torn Between Lovers

Maggie Reilly

Where to begin, how do I start
At the moment love lit the spark
Staring at the dawn, it's impossible to bear
Endless longing hanging in the air

You go running thru the night Try to chase away the pain With all those empty words Still drumming in your brain

To be torn between lovers
Impossible fate
How do you choose
When you've left it all too late

But every time I turn to you I see him in your face
And every time I reach for you
He's standing in your place
I don't know how to say this
His love I can't erase

So you scream into the wind You do your crying in the rain Chase after shadows But it just won't ease the pain

To be torn between lovers
A terrible fate
How do you choose
When you've left it much too late

But every time I turn to you He's looking thru your eyes And when I try to touch you I'm overcome by lies There's no easy answer To this love I can't deny

But every time I turn to you I see him in your face
And every time I reach for you He's standing in your place
I don't know how to say this
His love I can't erase

But every time I turn to you
He's looking thru your eyes
And when I try to touch you
I'm overcome by lies
There's no easy answer
To this love I can't deny