

Breakers

Makari

You've had a good life
So why would you try
To think about the damage you've done?

Call it a "big lie" and cover your eyes
While you slowly drags us towards the Sun like it's your destiny
If you looked at yourself you'd see the enemy

So I just thought that I should tell you
You're the reason why
We're all fucked up

Now you're staring at the ceiling while the ocean floor
Breaks us down to nothing more than chemicals
Are you feeling it?

You've been gambling with something that was never yours
Water keeps on rising 'til it's at your door
Are you feeling it?

Is it so hard for you to change?
You turn a blind eye as the world goes up in flames

There's still a light that guides the way
But you won't listen for half a second
Never learn your lesson

Now you're staring at the ceiling while the ocean floor
Breaks us down to nothing more than chemicals
Are you feeling it?

You've been gambling with something that was never yours
Water keeps on rising 'til it's at your door
Are you feeling it?

There's no time to waste
We won't be erased
The water's slowly on the rise

There's no time to waste
Won't be the mistake
Made by the men in suits and ties

Now you're staring at the ceiling while the ocean floor
Breaks us down to nothing more than chemicals
Are you feeling it?

You've been gambling with something that was never yours
Water keeps on rising 'til it's at your door
Are you feeling it?

So I just thought that I should tell you
You're the reason why we're all fucked up
Yeah I just thought that I should tell you
You're the reason why, the reason why