

Brooklyn

Mal Blum

I don't mind, you can move to Brooklyn
I don't mind, you can move to Brooklyn with me
And I wouldn't mind
Leave now! you can leave your dresser
Leave now! you can leave your suitcase behind
I wanna see you tonight
I don't mind you can follow me
From point A to point B
Through all the funny little phases of my funny little life
And I wouldn't mind
I'll leave a light for you at night
Come over right after your flight only you're not the same
So now
I don't mind
You can move to Brooklyn
I don't mind, you can move to Brooklyn when I'm gone!
Baby, cause it's only fair
I don't care what Dan Savage tells you
I won't care what your
New friends have to say
When I'm not there
Plus I know you're gonna follow me
From point A to point B
Through all the broken little stages
Of my broken little heart
If I should break your heart
If it should break
It was you that changed
It was you
Baby you're not the same
How strange that you're in the drugstore
How strange that you're at this party with me
And I don't know what it means
Typical that you've left your date
But how strange that you're walking up to me
So tell me, how have you been?
I don't mind
Now you're asking me
What happened to the city we knew
When it was just me and you

You robbed it
You broke it
You robbed it
You broke it
It had to move to get away from you
You robbed it
You broke it
You broke it
You robbed it
You broke it
You robbed it
You broke it
It had to move
And maybe I'd better move
