

Home To The Water

Mallary Hope

Do not waste your tears
Do not waste your fears
I am still right here
And I always will be

Look inside your heart
Open up your mind
Listen to my voice
Can't you hear me calling?

Oh when your morning light is dim
And your heart is aching deep within
Won't you put your trust in me again
Oh daughter, come home to the water

See the scars you left
They will not forget
But if you let me
I will be your healing hands

Oh when your morning light is dim
And your heart is aching deep within
Won't you put your trust in me again
Oh daughter, come home to the water

Troubled soul, don't be afraid
You should know I'm just one prayer away
Oh and I will not forsake
My arms are your safest place

When your morning light is dim
And your heart is aching deep within
Won't you put your trust in me again
Oh daughter, come home to the water

Come home
You can always come home
