

Heavy Lifting

Mandy Moore

When the words don't come
You can read my mind
You still hear me
When I want to run
You're not far behind
You always find me

I feel the planets shifting
And now I finally see

You've done all the heavy lifting
Right when nobody asked you to
You've done all the heavy lifting
Now it's my turn to comfort you
To cover you

When you're in the clouds
Let me shine on you
I'll make it clearer
When you can't see yourself
The way I do
I'll be your mirror

The world is spinning faster
It's time to slow things down

You've done all the heavy lifting
Right when nobody asked you to
You've done all the heavy lifting
Now it's my turn to comfort you
To cover you

If there's a way I should be thanking you
I'll never find it in the words
But as I try to make it up to you
I'll always be your little girl

You've done all the heavy lifting
Right when nobody asked you to
You've done all the heavy lifting
Now it's my turn to comfort you
To cover you
