

Eden

Marc E. Bassy

Comb your hair, roll out of bed
The last one that you're ever going to sleep in
Down the hall, a world away
Your songs gonna have to pick up where you leave them

How could you know yourself, until you broke down and cried
Trying to find something to believe in
That was the longest walk, I ever took in my life
Until I asked what you were thinking

You said oh it's a beautiful life
Even if you never find a reason
And I don't mind, I don't mind
I'm glad it ain't the garden of Eden

I can feel, the depths of your love
Raining on, me from above
I don't have time, to doubt it for anyone
There's no gods, that I pray to
This mirage, I can make do
No such thing, as a real world out there

How could you know yourself, until you broke down and cried
Trying to find something to believe in
That was the longest walk, I ever took in my life
Until I asked what you were thinking

You said oh it's a beautiful life
Even if you never find a reason
And I don't mind, I don't mind
I'm glad it ain't the garden of Eden

You said oh it's a beautiful life
Even if you never find a reason
And I don't mind, I don't mind
I'm glad it ain't the garden of Eden
