

I Forgot

Marc E. Bassy

I think I'm taking off my clothes
It's gonna be a long summer
And I think everybody knows
We all going under
Soon as you read the times
It's all disaster and calamity
You read between the lines

55 days in a row it's 100 degrees out
The world is on fire
And we all sinking below but my heads in a pink cloud

I forgot, all of the problems
Dancing with you
We finally solved them
I forgot, that we were fighting
Grinding on you, you keep me rising
I forgot, I forgot

They preach confusion in the streets baby
Let's you feel vindicated, easy to keep you out of reach baby
Long as they stirs up hatred
Don't care the colors that you fly
As long as you give up your money
Just read between the lines

55 days in a row it's 100 degrees out
The world is on fire
And we all sinking below but my heads in a pink cloud

I forgot, all of the problems
Dancing with you
We finally solved them
I forgot, that we were fighting
Grinding on you, you keep me rising
I forgot, all of the problems
Dancing with you
We finally solved them
I forgot, that we were fighting
Grinding on you, you keep me rising

Step into the light and let the wild slide through
Dive into the night and hit the backstroke
Don't look at the times, it's a wild world true
Forget all of the crimes, that the man do
That the man do, that the man do, that the man do, that the man do
Step into the light and let the wild slide through
Dive into the night and hit the backstroke
