

Reminder

Marc E. Bassy

Woke up this morning found a letter that she wrote
She said she's tired that I'm always on the road
And when I'm home I'm wired at the studio
Coming home late at night, talking bout my goals
I thought I told you the second that we started
If I don't get there baby I'll be broken hearted
She said it's sad that you can't see that you made it
All it take a women's love to make you validated
How many nights you gonna run around here faded
Always chasing something baby never choosing patience
Measure of a man these days is how he define greatness
Girl you know better then that

Baby I'll be, outside of the spot
Hurry back home while the food still hot
Taught me how to love you I ain't never forgot
I just need your reminder

Baby I'll be, outside of the spot
Hurry back home while the food still hot
Taught me how to love you I ain't never forgot
I just need your reminder

Sometimes I cry when I'm lonely at night
Can't change the past babe you got my hands tied
Even though I'd die to meet you on the other side
Can you let me live for you this time
When I was younger poppa was a rolling stone
Was my favorite song
That's what I was on
All my role models baby now they dead and gone
I just need your reminder

Baby I'll be, outside of the spot
Hurry back home while the food still hot
Taught me how to love you I ain't never forgot
I just need your reminder

Baby I'll be, outside of the spot
Hurry back home while the food still hot
Taught me how to love you I ain't never forgot
I just need your reminder