

because, of course

Maren Morris

I'm not a mathematician
But the world's done a number on you
We're all rose-colored visioned
But you only see the blue
You keep looking for a reason
But I don't need a reason to

Cross my heart, I'm on your side
It's no decision, it's decided

You need a place to land, I'll be the floor
You need an easy out, I'll be the door
You need a song to sing, I'll be the chords
The wind beneath your wings, I'll be the source
People let down, people let go
Baby, by now, you should know
You don't gotta earn it anymore
I'm always gonna love you
Because, of course

I swear the veil is lifting
It's okay to open your eyes
The universe is shifting
I'll give you all the space and the time
There's only one condition
My love is unconditional

I cross my heart, it's alright
It's no decision, it's decided

You need a place to land, I'll be the floor
You need an easy out, I'll be the door
You need a song to sing, I'll be the chords
The wind beneath your wings, I'll be the source
People let down, people let go
Baby, by now, you should know
You don't gotta earn it anymore
I'm always gonna love you
Because, of course

I'll be the ship, I'll be the shore
I'll keep you safe because, of course
It's gonna rain, it's gonna pour
I'll find a way

You need a place to land, I'll be the floor
You need an easy out, I'll be the door
You need a song to sing, I'll be the chords
The wind beneath your wings, I'll be the source
People let down, people let go
Baby, by now, you should know
You don't gotta earn it anymore
I'm always gonna love you
Because, of course