

Close Enough To Change

Margaret Becker

Maybe I've
Never understood
All the love You have for me
Every one
In a great while
I think I almost see
And for one moment in time
My world turns differently

Oh, for the eyes that can see
All the love You have for me
And for the truth to remain
Close enough to change me
For the heart that can keep
The memory of Your peace
And for the truth to remain
Close enough to change

It's so sad
These days keep slipping by
Where I live so tentatively
When I could be
Running freely in the light
Of the Love that is for me
I pray for the wisdom to hold
Each day more precious

Oh, for the eyes that can see
All the love You have for me
And for the truth to remain
Close enough to change me
For the heart that can keep
The memory of Your peace
And for the truth to remain
Close enough to change

BRIDGE
There
In the blink of an eye
The clouds
This side of heaven
Open up and I am looking at You
Though
It is never long enough
I see the universe align
And I see everything's alright
And I see love
I feel loved

Oh, for the eyes that can see
All the love you have for me
And the truth to remain
Close enough to change me
For the heart that can keep
The memory of your peace
And for the thought of love to remain
Close enough to change

For the eyes that can see
All the love you have for me

And the truth to remain
Close enough to change